What inspires someone to sing? Some days I wake up with a song in my heart and even write down the lyrics others, I am just blank as clean paper. Good to know what makes a musical heart or state of mind that I would sing more often and on the go!

That's a good question. I'm neither a singer nor a songwriter, but I believe heartbreak, trauma, and passion, are the lifeblood of many a good singer.

It is majorly about emotions. When I am heartbroken, I sing some songs that relates to the way that I am feeling at that particular moment. If I am happy, then I go with some happy songs. That's what I think about singing songs.

There are several things that can cause a musical heart. It can be passion, trauma, past experiences, expectations from friends and also pain. I'm not a musician or a song writer but I've seen people deep in pain, compose songs.

It is all about inspiration. Most of these musicians are inspired to make songs at a particular time. Some could be a result of what is happening at that particular time. Others could be just because of some mere situations or economic problems.

I've seen artists who keep recording songs at free time which they get to release at a later date.

They could release those songs 4 years after and it is still relevant. So, that is what I think makes a lot of them come up with so many songs.
