With the advent of the Internet, the digital world has become much more interesting. Through the Internet, you can get any information. I've always been interested in this global technology and how there are all the billions of websites in this world. It is clear that all this is not in the air, but the entire Internet is stored on servers. I want to study this topic in more detail, where can I read an article about the Internet and hosting?

since the year that the internet came into our lives, it has come to change them completely as you had known them, in my opinion the internet is the best invention of humanity, have you tried to find the article you are looking for in a forum or page dedicated exclusively to this type of contents? I think it is much more likely that you will find what you are looking for there

I knew a page where you can find guides of all kinds and if I remember correctly there was a guide to web hosting and that type of service but I don't remember what it's called, I'll look in the browser history and if I find it I'll come back here to tell you about it, but here in all this forum some user should be able to give you help

Yes, you're right, all websites have to be kept somewhere, and as a rule, these days every organization has to have its own website to provide information about itself, to get feedback from the web. Even many ordinary people create websites and blogs and make money from them. That is, every day there are more and more new projects and information on the web in any field of activity. And all of this is stored, as mentioned above, on hosting, more details about hosting and servers can be read in the full guide https://websitehosting.com/guide/.
