Subject: Words To Live By
Posted by smartt on Mon, 19 Feb 2024 22:02:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I follow the NFL LA Chargers. On the forum dmac_bolt said " I am always positive, that part is true. I don't believe in negativity, it sucks the weak and the lost into a vortex of perpetual failure. I am never afraid to hope to win tomorrow and I don't believe a loss last year means next year is doomed. If I fail, I get up, I dust myself off, and I try again vs whine about how I'll never succeed. "

Subject: Re: Words To Live By
Posted by Mulcahy on Wed, 21 Feb 2024 22:14:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks for the encouragement. There's always a way to change for the better. Never liked the thinking that one mistake defines a person for good.

Subject: Re: Words To Live By
Posted by Rusty on Fri, 23 Feb 2024 12:35:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I recently read an article about the war going on in Ukraine concerning editorializing the notion of persevering with more appropriations of more weapons and recruits.
It's a good notion to try and be positive and disciplined with a goal in mind. But with temperance in trying to reach a goal if what it entails to get there was ever worth it.

The article began with a quote from the bible. In Proverbs, chapter 26.
"As dogs return to their vomit. So do fools repeat their folly."

https://thehill.com/opinion/international/4467823-the-idea-of-total-ukrainian-victory-is-delusional/

Subject: Re: Words To Live By
Posted by Helen on Mon, 29 Sep 2025 02:14:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I believe in getting better with each passing day and can never give up. Just like you mentioned, one shouldn't judge their tomorrow by how tough today has been because the future is always bright which makes me to keep believing.

Subject: Re: Words To Live By
Posted by Prince on Wed, 15 Oct 2025 05:59:32 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have this mindset that what will be will eventually be. I can remember doing well in my first job, but when it came to being sacked, I wasn't told clearly what I did wrong. Since that incident, I don't do anything to impress anyone more than I should because I know it may end up one way or another.

Subject: Re: Words To Live By
Posted by George on Mon, 20 Oct 2025 08:31:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Prince wrote on Wed, 15 October 2025 00:59I have this mindset that what will be will eventually be. I can remember doing well in my first job, but when it came to being sacked, I wasn't told clearly what I did wrong. Since that incident, I don't do anything to impress anyone more than I should because I know it may end up one way or another.
It is not like I am asking you to totally change what you believe in, but trust me when I say that we have a lot to contribute on what is going to be. We can focus on making our lives and that of those around us better once we do good. We can enjoy good things of life once we work harder. So, relaxing and believing in what will be doesn't sound good with me.

Subject: Re: Words To Live By
Posted by Becky on Wed, 22 Oct 2025 09:24:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Prince wrote on Wed, 15 October 2025 00:59I have this mindset that what will be will eventually be. I can remember doing well in my first job, but when it came to being sacked, I wasn't told clearly what I did wrong. Since that incident, I don't do anything to impress anyone more than I should because I know it may end up one way or another.
I know that sometimes, we don't get what we want and other times, it worked perfectly the way it will favor us. As for the mindset of what will be will eventually be can't work all the time without our effort. Why you wait for bread from heaven, make sure that you are working effortlessly to get the butter for it.