
Subject: The End of Koetsu

Posted by smartt on Mon, 01 Apr 2024 05:59:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Koetsu cartridge is defunct. As reported by Facebook Koetsu Users. Another one bites the dust.

Subject: Re: The End of Koetsu

Posted by Rusty on Mon, 01 Apr 2024 13:21:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

How many Koetsu carts do you have? I don't have any. Or any other high end cartridge. If it were Audio Technica, Ortofon or other budget and mid level cartridge makers. It would be concerning. I read that it was a family decision at Koetsu to end production. Maybe age related, economics or both. They were at the top of the top in that rarified business. Everything done by hand no doubt. But way, way above my threshold paying for such a thing. Sayonara Koetsu.

Subject: Re: The End of Koetsu

Posted by gofar99 on Fri, 05 Apr 2024 01:50:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi, I understand that some sort of product line deletions are going on at Grado as well. fewer in the lower price range apparently. Issues with OEM stylus as well.

Subject: Re: The End of Koetsu

Posted by Rusty on Fri, 05 Apr 2024 10:07:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The Grado Prestige line, (I have a red) has tapered down to three. They eliminated the cheapest, the black, the blue and the silver. It was superfluous having all these colors that essentially all have the same stylus mounted on them. Grado's shell game of marketing. Going with the schtick of their color coded grading system.

My least enjoyable cartridge. That stylus is not a good tracker.

Subject: Re: The End of Koetsu

Posted by gofar99 on Fri, 05 Apr 2024 14:40:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi, I had a pair of golds and they were OK. Now I use a Sonata II. Paired with a 370H Jelco arm on an Empire 598 it really sings. None of the possible issues that some folks report. Really sweet, quiet and tracks perfectly. YMMV My go to player. For a change up the other TT in use is a diy made from a Dual 701 drive/control system (full manual) with another 370H and a Dynavektor Ruby Karat 23-MR-RS. A rather energetic sound.

Subject: Re: The End of Koetsu
Posted by Rusty on Fri, 05 Apr 2024 17:42:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I read it has a nudie on it. The Prestige line all have that big bonded styli. Some have said on the Vinyl Engine that under scrutiny from retippers an unimpressive stylus. I briefly contemplated retipping the red I have. Very briefly knowing what it would cost. The Grado I have is the only cart I have that is problematic in tracking using my 1200 MK5. Using AT's, ADC, Ortofon's, Denon, Stanton's, Pickering, Excel, Empire, Panasonic, Nagaoka. I gave up fiddling with it.

Subject: Re: The End of Koetsu
Posted by gofar99 on Sun, 07 Apr 2024 02:13:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi The Sonata and higher Grados seem to be different animals from the lower ones. Mine tracks the Analog Productions Ultra test LP fine. A scope shows no issues at all levels. My sense is that the cartridges may be more sensitive to arms and set up than might be common. I use a Jelco 370H (9") with a 1.5 gram VTF and just a little less on AS. It is set with a Baerwald alignment. The damping on the arm is at nearly minimum. I didn't test any of the other Grados that I had (all sold off now) but I really didn't notice any audible tracking issues with them either. Possibly synergy between the arms and the cartridges. Don't know and above my pay grade. YMMV
