As a guy, I feel much happy going out most of the weekends with my pals to enjoy at the pub. It is a time to rest, relax and have fun. Do you have a particular beer that you like having week in, week out and why is it so?

I don't like beer anymore because I hated it when it disgraced me because I took it too much. I used to love Heineken as my favourite beer but not anymore.

As a guy, I don't think that I will stop drinking beer. I can only take them in moderation to avoid having any health issues in the long run as a result of that. At the moment, I like the taste of Hepcat as that's the beer that I've truly enjoyed drinking for some time now.

I do understand every much that guys love beer very much. I will always tell people to know how much intake of beer that they consume. At the long run, you might not know what hit you because you were playing with your health. Taking in moderation is good but it's ever better if you take water more.
