Going on trips or travelling to certain places alone could be boring to some where whereas others truly enjoy such. I always like to go on trips with my partner or even take my family along when I go on such trips. This is because I feel bored when I am just travelling alone. This is not to say that I've not travelled series of times alone, but it wasn't fun. So, are you more relaxed when travelling alone or you prefer going with company?

I feel more relaxed when travelling alone. The reason is that I will have all the time for myself, check around both the playing ground, library and have my fill with foods. I can go with my partner, it's still another time to enjoy someone's company.
