Snapping pictures is one of the activities that I like doing. I see it as a way to capture cool moments in life. I mean I can't go a week without taking up to 10 pictures. Are you just like me who likes taking pictures or don't you enjoy it at all?

Taking pictures is one of my favorite activities. I am also the type of person who likes to capture every moment of my life. This means that I can take pictures while at work, in the church, and anywhere that I go because I wouldn't want to look back and don't have a visual representation of how my life has been. SO, I am so invested when it comes to taking pictures.

I don't use to take pictures when I was more younger because of shyness and I don't also have lots of friends who I will always go out with. But when I was much older, I started taking pictures of every moment that I spent outside and indoors, enjoying all the outfits as I changes style for pose.

Taking pictures too is one of my favorite activities and I don't neglect every moment that I took pictures of natures or mountains. I can take pictures of my walking, climbing, laughing, in the church or at work. It always made my day each time I do look at my gallery, viewing every pictures I have snapped.
