There is a school of thought that believes that ghosts exist and are real. The thought is that once one is dead, their ghosts start roaming about for a period of time doing a couple of things. Are you someone who believes in the existence of ghosts?

I so much believe in ghost even though I haven't seen one before. I have read stories about encounters that people had with ghosts both in school, churches and also in markets. It feel so weird whenever I'm reading that.

Hi, Rusty

It's more like we share similar thoughts on the existence of ghosts. I dont believe that there are many of them out there. Casper made the existence of ghosts so real when I was still small, too.

I have never seen a ghost. I don't believe in it's existence and would say that stories about their existence are mere stories thriving on hallucinations and nothing more.

This is my view on ghost existence as well. Anyone claiming that they exist in real life should provide good evidence to back their claims up.
