Subject: Planning to get a good soundbar for a small room, any ideas?
Posted by Prince on Fri, 31 Oct 2025 16:52:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I am looking for a good affordable soundbar that I could get for my eldest son. He is going to a camping event and has asked that I help get one for him.

I've had thoughts about the Sonos Beam Gen 2, Sony HT-S2000, and the Samsung HW-S800D, but torn on which one to get.

Has anyone made use of any of those mentioned or have an alternative that has wireless connectivity, Dolby Atmos support and amazing sound quality? He is going by November ending and I am hoping I could get an idea of what to get for him?

He has tasked me with this request and I wouldn't want to fail him for anything.

Share some ideas with me, please.

Subject: Re: Planning to get a good soundbar for a small room, any ideas?
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 31 Oct 2025 20:37:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

To be honest, there is one very good reason to buy a sound bar and that's convenience. That's the reason sound bars are popular.

But they sacrifice everything else for convenience.

So if that's most important, there you go. Get a sound bar.

Sometimes you gotta have a quick and small setup, and that's where they become most attractive.

Subject: Re: Planning to get a good soundbar for a small room, any ideas?
Posted by George on Thu, 06 Nov 2025 04:54:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Two of the key factors that you would have to consider before getting this soundbar for your son are whether it is water-resistant and the battery life since camping is likely going to be an outdoor event.

So, picking a device that has a strong battery and won't have issues with water comes first. This is why I believe Hisense AX5125H should be the one that you get.

It is a bit cheap as the one that I got costs around $350. It has a wireless subwoofer and surround speakers that deliver good audio quality as well.

I think your son would be very happy if you can be able to get this as it has all the necessary features for a camping event.

Subject: Re: Planning to get a good soundbar for a small room, any ideas?
Posted by Becky on Thu, 20 Nov 2025 05:42:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

All three soundbars you mentioned are good, but they’re a bit different. The Sonos Beam Gen 2 is really clean and easy to use, but it costs more. The Sony HT-S2000 is honestly the best value; it still has Dolby Atmos, sounds great, and is usually cheaper. The Samsung model sounds nice too, but it’s on the pricey side.

The only thing is that none of these are really meant for camping since they need to be plugged in. If he wants something for the trip itself, a portable Bluetooth speaker like the JBL Charge 5 or UE Boom might make more sense. But if you’re just getting him a soundbar for home before he goes, I’d pick the Sony HT-S2000 for the best balance of price and sound.

Subject: Re: Planning to get a good soundbar for a small room, any ideas?
Posted by Prince on Mon, 26 Jan 2026 05:57:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

George wrote on Wed, 05 November 2025 22:54 Two of the key factors that you would have to consider before getting this soundbar for your son are whether it is water-resistant and the battery life since camping is likely going to be an outdoor event.

So, picking a device that has a strong battery and won't have issues with water comes first. This is why I believe Hisense AX5125H should be the one that you get.

It is a bit cheap as the one that I got costs around $350. It has a wireless subwoofer and surround speakers that deliver good audio quality as well.

I think your son would be very happy if you can be able to get this as it has all the necessary features for a camping event.
I am not going to sound like devices that are a bit affordable are not always good, but I am a bit skeptical about getting one and it starts to develop faults within a period. Have you made use of this Hisense AX5125H or know anyone who's been using it for a while now? Maybe that will help me in making a better decision on if to get it or no??

Subject: Re: Planning to get a good soundbar for a small room, any ideas?

Posted by Prince on Fri, 20 Mar 2026 10:20:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wayne Parham wrote on Fri, 31 October 2025 15:37
To be honest, there is one very good reason to buy a sound bar and that's convenience. That's the reason sound bars are popular.

But they sacrifice everything else for convenience.

So if that's most important, there you go. Get a sound bar.

Sometimes you gotta have a quick and small setup, and that's where they become most attractive.

Honestly, I like soundbars for it's convenience. The opportunity to setup good quality sound without stress is what draws me to them. I've spent a lot getting different brand of soundbars in the past and they were really worth the hype.