Find 'em in the local classified magazines. The best one is the "Tradin' Post" which is sold at our local gas stations. It's usually next to "Cycle Trader" and "Truck trader" Do you get those in OK?The other good local rag is "Tell-it-n-Sell-it" This is pretty much scraping the bottom of the barrel. There might be one item I would even think about calling on each week, although the ads for good clean used underware are tempting.Need to score about 2000 jazz and old C&W LPs and then I'm done.....

We do have those ad magazines in Oklahoma. Never thought to look in them for records. Thanks for the tip! I'll scan through them from time to time.

Seems like the older generation (60+) post a majority of the ads. Godd for us youngins. 90% of my finds come from here.I passed on about 100 78s for $10 last night. I need to start hitting the auction houses and not estate sales. There's one place about 5 miles from my house that sells LP box lots prior to individual items. Might be intersting since this is maily dealers....C
