Subject: Best Turntable Model? BSR, Dual, NAD...
Posted by BigCat21 on Fri, 13 Apr 2007 17:04:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi all,I am setting up a nice, but rather fun and eclectic audio system using Denon and other components. I am installing a turntable to play some older vinyl. I have at my disposal three somewhat vintage turntables and am wondering if any of you gurus can rate them in order of "worthiness". I will install the second best one in another system.Here are the three:BSR 810 TranscriptionDual 1264NAD Stereo Turntable 5125Thanks!BigCat

Subject: Re: Best Turntable Model? BSR, Dual, NAD...
Posted by randle on Tue, 08 May 2007 19:26:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sounds pretty nice to me, let us know how it works out and how nice it turns out to be.

Subject: Re: Best Turntable Model? BSR, Dual, NAD...
Posted by randle on Wed, 16 May 2007 21:49:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Back in the day, Gerrard was THE turntable to have. In my opinion anyway. Years ago, I had an old compact system that had a Gerrard turntable. The setup was as I recall, a solid state system, that had the turntable built in. To be honest, this was so long ago I don;t recall the specs and serial numbers. I do rememberer that the sounds that came out of that system were sweet. I know, this all probably dates me! So be it!