I have been thinking about getting into analog again...(as usual). It has been a long time but I remember the easy liquidity fondly. Do you have any vintage table recommendations that will be cheap, but allow me start again? Thanks.

Try out NexTag, they have an audio-Technica for 79 bucks. I think that would be a greater start over for you to look into. It's small and easy to handle and not too complicated at all.

That is actually a great table to start with. It's small; I don't know what size you are looking for but as far as price is concerned it's cheap.
