Can anyone solve this problem?I have bought a replacement belt for the Tascam 133, as the old one broke. I cannot figure out how to replace it, as there are many components in the way. Can one replace the belt without removing parts from the deck? Is there a "smart" way of doing this?RegardsJan

From Dave's reply below, my guess is that you'll need to disassemble the deck to get to the belt. Just take your time and pay attention to where everything goes so you can put it back together the way it came apart.Tascam 133 belt replacement
