Hi I am looking to use scan speak or usher speakers. They both lookthe same but, the scan speak looks like it has more extras on it.Does this make it a better driver? Are they going to up date therecarbon fiber drivers soon. Which is a better driver? Thanks jm

Can you be more specific? What drivers do you mean and can you post the measured response? How are they used? Two way/three way? What size are they, 8" 12"?

Yes this is the model number for the scan speak driver it is18w/8545k a 7 inch carbon fiber/paper woofer. The usher is 8945a also a carbon fiber/paper woofer. The price diffrence is$ 38.85. Is it really a diffrence in sound and extra bells and thingslike for the scan speak sd-1 r3,kapton former a grasshopper castframedoes this really make a diffrence or is it just adding to the driver to make it look like your getting more? The usher not to much goingon over there. A lot of people think it is a newer design of the same driver. I am goin to use them in a ported box a 2 way. All for musiconly. I have a hometheater set up so it will not be used for that.I am looking at getting the woofer testerr 2 from parts express.It seems to work really well and this is my 3rd speaker I am buildingand want to get it right. Well if you want to know more just e-mailme and I will try to get you the best answer I can. Thanks jm

I don't have first hand experience with the drivers but you may find this article helpful.
