Subject: Strange bedfellows
Posted by MWG on Sun, 16 Jul 2006 04:28:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Tonight I was fooling around and making my 337th change when I decided to use the Maggies as wings on the Valencias. I hooked the Maggies up to the M-50 amp and left the Vals on the MC-2505. Once I adjusted the sound levels with a meter things started sounding pretty good.Placement of the Maggies is critical and it took a while to get it close. I think with two people it would go a lot quicker. Hopefully I can con someone else into coming over and getting another opinion.

Subject: Re: Strange bedfellows
Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 17 Jul 2006 13:53:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Don't the Valencias cause sympathetic vibrations on the membrane of the Maggies?

Subject: Re: Strange bedfellows
Posted by MWG on Tue, 18 Jul 2006 00:45:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Probably as they damn near blew them over Some day I'd like someone who really knows sound to listen to some of my junk and tell me exactly how it sounds. Not that I'll change a thing but I'm curious to know if my sound tastes are anywhere near normal.I think I may in my own reality with my setup Which is a good thing because the only one I really have to please is myself. Not the general poplulation