I have a Gigaworks S750 systemI am not very good with this kind of stuffIt recently blew up so I bought a new oneIt is essentially a power amp-subwoofer box which supplies the other speakersI didnt want to throw away the old one so I took out all of the amp components to leave me with a speaker in a boxMy problem is that there are 3 pairs of wires going to the speaker and I am not sure whyand so I dont know how to wire it upShould I put a power amp in the box and then use sub pre out from an integrated amp separtely or should I just wire the speaker up to an integrated amp?Can anyone help?THanks in advance
