Subject: Thanks Spkerman57!
Posted by SteveBrown on Wed, 02 Nov 2005 01:22:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Had a great evening visiting w/Ron, aka spkerman57 at his place in Columbus. Those who have had the opportunity to visit know what I mean when I say...wow. First off, he has a virtual audio museum of parts, amps, cabinets, it goes on and on.. secondly, great time listening to some awesome horns. While I'd be sleeping on the sofa for a very long time if I tried to duplicate his system in my house, it still sounded outstanding. Now if only I could have hidden some of those 2226's in my car before leaving... anyway, thanks Ron. Great fun!

Subject: Survived visit to spkrman57's house!
Posted by spkrman57 on Wed, 02 Nov 2005 10:56:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Steve,Glad to add another great Ohio audiophile to the list. Maybe some of the others will chime in here to relate their experiences. We will soon draft up plans for your future speaker system. I think it will be what you are looking for!Thanks for the kind words!Ron

Subject: Re: Thanks Spkerman57!
Posted by colinhester on Thu, 03 Nov 2005 00:48:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Glad to see you made it over to Ron's house. The first time I went I was pretty blown away (pun intended) by both the amount of stuff he's managed to accumulate and his system. Did Ron manage to convince you that horns can sound pretty nice? Ron's collection is nice in that lenses and drivers can be swapped easily for easy comparison.I know what you mean be sleeping on the sofa. My wife still has not forgiven Ron for the A7 cabs w/511b horns (and the cool 1950s 9 cubic foot sub cab w/ dual 15s.) She not so jokingly refers to Ron as the "loser." I'd like to see a wrongsideofthetracks meet in the next month or so. It would be help in Columbus. Are you up for it?.....Colin

Subject: Re: Thanks Spkerman57!
Posted by SteveBrown on Thu, 03 Nov 2005 10:34:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Colin, yes, love to get together. Ron did demo some nice horns. I'd like to try some in my setting to see how they'd sound. Mabye I can convince him to at least cart over some horns and we can toss them on top of some bass speakers here (not that I have anything that can compete, but might be okay for demo).

Subject: Re: Thanks Spkerman57!
Posted by spkrman57 on Thu, 03 Nov 2005 11:00:17 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Steve,I will set you up with a prototype sample for you to borrow and try out and see what you think. Actually in a larger room and 9 watts vs my 2 watts should work well with my standard 2-way.I will start working on that this weekend. I will need some more input from you as I go along so we can tailor this system toward something you want to use for the long run.If you like what you hear you can build your own cabinets to house them.Most everyone that knows me will tell you I build good sounding systems, but most of them are ugly, my emphasis is on the sound reproduction. You make it beautiful to finish it off!Ron

---

Subject: wrongsideofthetracks fest
Posted by colinhester on Thu, 03 Nov 2005 16:57:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ron, We talked the other night about getting together for a little fest. Think we can nail a date down pretty soon? I would vote for the weekend before Thanksgiving. Let's get Bill, Tim and Steve (others?) to give some input.....Colin

---

Subject: Re: wrongsideofthetracks fest
Posted by spkrman57 on Thu, 03 Nov 2005 19:56:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hey Gang!Let's move this thread to the "General" forum where it really belongs!I will start a thread with same title:"wrongsideofthe tracks"and we will continue on with this.I am thinking that I should be the POC (point of contact) for this event for now, that could change in the future.Regards, Ron

---