Subject: Happy Memorial Day weekend!
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 27 May 2005 21:34:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you know a person in the military or a veteran, be sure and buy them a drink! Best wishes to all.

Subject: Re: Happy Memorial Day weekend!
Posted by zincman on Fri, 27 May 2005 22:58:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Big DITTO from me, hats off to all those in harms way to let us live the life we have, SALUTE

Subject: Re: Happy Memorial Day weekend!
Posted by Steve on Sat, 28 May 2005 03:04:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

3rd that from me. Steve

Subject: Memorial Day Remembrance
Posted by Charlie DeLuca on Sat, 28 May 2005 13:24:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

When my parents died a couple of years ago they had military funerals and were interred in a National Cemetery.It was very humbling to see how many WWII and Korea vets are buried every day; it's stunning to realize they're all passing very quickly now. It's also a revelation to see row on row, acre after acre of grave markers – all people who defended this country in its darkest hours.There are many National Cemeteries in every region of the country; there's probably one just a short drive away from where you are right now. You might drop by one this weekend and contemplate some of the events behind what you'll find there and what they mean to you today.

Subject: Re: Memorial Day Remembrance
Posted by Manualblock on Sat, 28 May 2005 14:17:39 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nice post Charlie; I would add there is a Vietnam Memorial pretty much in every town now that could use a visit also. The kids need to get their heads out of the computors and see this.

Subject: Re: Memorial Day Remembrance
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sat, 28 May 2005 15:41:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Charlie, I'm going to do just that. And when I visit the cemetery and look around, I'll be thinking of you and your family. You've been a friend for a long time.

Subject: Re: Memorial Day Remembrance
Posted by elektratig on Sun, 29 May 2005 08:18:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nicely put. WWII ended sixty years ago -- a 20 yr. old in 1945 is 80 years of age today. We owe all our soldiers a great debt.
