Can someone tell me what type of speakers is good for your computer and if so should you add a subwoofer to it or would it ruin your computer's sound?

These were suppose to be best at one time. When they first came out they were reviewed by "The Audio Critic" and were given very high marks. Here's an eBay listing for some used ones (not mine) and you can see from the price that they are still held in high regard.....C

Aren' they wonderful to have. My friends had bought some and talk about them so bad but I didn't really see any downside in them at all.
