I knew that james was moving the full ranger site and have that linked. But the regular one is giving a message in German which I thinkmeans no longer active. Recent stops at the new site did not show anything but testinfo from 2 weeks ago for the new format. I'm writing to ask if any that read both AudioRoundtableand the James Melhuish site know what's going on. Elsewhere I have gotten a pair of Tangband full rangeW3-871S's for the project based on zaphod's tall skinny projectwhich I call the Jim Beams. Tried one open baffle setup and also a sealed box test. I also stuck one in my longPVC pipes called the Boomtoobz to see what would happen. The boomtoobs experiment was a disappointment.RS 1197's still rule in the Boomtoobz config. I have a long way to go on that project.
