Passing on what I have read and heard from others---Yes there are Fostex that are Japanese release only---that could be the way they introduce new drivers---try them out in the local market---so I am told the F200a is out of production and available only in limited amounts by dealers that still have them in their stock---My question is so what will replace it? Please keep us informed of your findings and enjoy your trip (pics please!) And remember : Don't eat the Blowfish!
