I have a couple of Beta 8 pairs and a pair of Flat 10 drivers.They sound very very good, the Flat series is not strong enough for horns, but great in reflex.The Beta´s on the other hand, really lives in a horn.I plan on making a multi channel setup using Beta 8 drivers.

Thank you. Does anyone have Thiel Small params for the betas? I would like (in case this camp homeboy could ever aspire) to know what sort of a load to plan for these paragons.Regards, Poinz

I only have TS parms for my own drivers, and as you can see they vary quite alot with age, so you have to measure the TS.

I think I´ll stick to the original Coral horn, or design something similar.I´ve played around with a

Lowther Acousta and a Lowther Fidelio cabinet with these drivers, and they don´t sound the same, but still very close and has the same qualities.I think they might be from different production lines.The newest pair had a bit more bass, while the oldest was more musical and mellow.But still, they are the best speakers I have ever owned, and the build quality is really something else compared to Lowthers.RegardsKim
