Good one, and If pirates somehow get access to the "music" by some "scratching machine", they only get "frequency distorted" signal, or about -20 dB/20Hz & +20 dB/20kHz referred at 1kHz. Jokes aside, music industry wants someone to pay the same money for the CD as 20 years ago, doesn't matter what band, etc. Even today, there are some people who actually buy CDs?!:-)

Unfortunately, I am still buying CDs and still averaging 2-3 a week. Doesn't sound like much but when you average it out over a 15 year period, it's a problem.

But does it sound as good as a CD?
