Being a fairly recent viewer to your Forum, why on earth are your postings arranged in a zig zag manner, very irratating when looking for something quickly. What is wrong with nice virtical columns !!!Still an interesting Forum.

It's supposed to enable you to distinguish where any particular thread begins and ends except when people post out of order. Hijacking threads causes this to happen.When the posts are in order then it is helpfull. When you post within a thread it gets real confusing; but the bad part is you lose the sequence of answers and lot of times this makes replies lose their meaning.However it gets easier over time to follow the threads.
