
Subject: Solid wood Pawos
Posted by MDJ on Sat, 21 Jul 2007 03:12:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Baltic Birch ply is not available in India, but Padauk is, and it would cost only about $200 to make a pair of Pawo enclosures, including finishing. How would a Padauk enclosure sound compared to one made of Birch ply? MDJ

Subject: Re: Solid wood Pawos
Posted by cheyoung on Thu, 26 Jul 2007 18:04:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

hi mdj yes both of them sound very good in hard wood enclosure, i tried both on the pawozeno

Subject: Re: Solid wood Pawos
Posted by MDJ on Fri, 27 Jul 2007 05:49:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks a lot. Can you do me a favour? Can you give me the mounting details - that is hole diameter, diameter and depth of inset and hole spacings? I received my speakers without the speaker cabinet dimensions. Can I use the dimensions as given on the web? Thanks MDJ

Subject: Re: Solid wood Pawos
Posted by cheyoung on Fri, 27 Jul 2007 14:18:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

which driver did you order? dca 5.5 or 4? zeno

Subject: Re: Solid wood Pawos
Posted by MDJ on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 01:33:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have one pair of DCA 4's and one pair of DCA 5.5's MDJ

Subject: Re: Solid wood Pawos
Posted by cheyoung on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 04:46:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

please drop me a mail at vmpps_voon@yahoo.com, i will assist you make the most out of themzeno
