Subject: Peacemaker
Posted by Bill Epstein on Sun, 02 Oct 2005 01:02:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

So last night at about 1 AM my upstaire neighbor, as happened several times this week was playing Hip-Hop on the BoomBox. All I get is the boom-boom, of course. Very annoying. Couldn't get back to sleep.Leaving the speakers hooked up to the music system, I proceeded to play The Eurythymics 'Sweet Dreams' on the Home Theatre system. Twice as much level as for a movie. All that came out, of course was 60 Hz and down from the Subwoofer. At about 100dB! The building shook in what would have been in time to the music had there been any music!I played about 16 bars and then listened for a reaction.Quiet."Ah sleep, that unravels the knitted sleeve of care..." - Willie the ShakeInto the arms of Morpheus

Subject: Re: Peacemaker
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 02 Oct 2005 04:26:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: lol - nt - nice one
Posted by gonefishin on Wed, 05 Oct 2005 01:32:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

nt

Subject: Re: Peacemaker
Posted by lon on Sun, 09 Oct 2005 03:12:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nice to see a reference to Lord Buckley now and then.

Subject: Re: Peacemaker
Posted by DRCope on Wed, 12 Oct 2005 10:14:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

He hee heeee.I had the same problem in the late '70s with a jerk upstairs who held a dance party every weekend. Sounded like an army marching to music across the floor upstairs. I already had Polk 10 speakers (I didn't KNOW any better, I tell ya!), a Thorens table and a recording of the brand new Telarc 1812 overture. All that remained was to borrow a Phase Linear 400 from the Tech Hi Fi I managed. Skipped the music and went straight to the artillery. I was afraid the windows in the living room were going to blow out they were rattling so badly.Same result - peace, perfect peace. Speak softly, but carry a big sonic stick. PS - Sadly, I think my neighbor must now be an inflential member of the Hi(nd) End, as RMAF had an awful lot of people doing the same crap. Deafen to impress. sigh