ABC is now selling the next day episodes of shows for .99c apiece without commercials via TIVO. Too bad without all the commercials the shows are probably 10 minutes long.If this is old news; then never mind.

Interesting John. I did not know that. Wonder what the advertisers think? One more nail in the coffin of TV advertising. -akhilesh

I can post a link from ABC news but it should be all over the entertainment news. You know when cable first statrted it too was a paid service. Now we pay and still see commercials.I would pay 99c if I could save the shows somehow and watch them again; I don't know if that is happening.
