

---

Subject: question from poland :]
Posted by MarX on Wed, 12 Jan 2005 21:59:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

hey! I would like to ask you - experts - for advice :) Right now I'm using some unknown Thomson headphones for less than 10 $ ;) and I've never used better ones ;) My question is, right now I have some money which I would like to spend on new headphones... I'm going to use it mostly with my PlayStation 2 (right now connected with my JVC mx-j850r) playing games :) 2nd use will be listening to music on my PC (SBLive 5.1) good audio effects in games are the most important to me... and YES stuff like virtual surround etc. is much more important than extra-clear sound ;) (I hope you know what I mean) I'm thinking about: akg K66 Sony MDR-if540r Panasonic RP-wf930 Panasonic RP-ht711 Sennheiser HD 515 Sennheiser RS120 which (or maybe something else for similar price??) should I buy and why ??? Will "normal" stereo sound in 515 be (for me) something more exciting than v. surround systems in Panasonic's or Sony's? please help! waiting for your answers marxps. are Sony MDR-g74sl MUCH better than MDR-g58v or MDR-g54lp ?? I mean is it better to spend this 10 $ more on first or not? ps2. sorry but my English is not perfect... ;P

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by Wayne Parham on Thu, 13 Jan 2005 00:16:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I'll wait to see what the headphone aficionados say. But you might get lucky and win the Grados on the 30,000th post game. I know those are pretty nice.

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by MarX on Thu, 13 Jan 2005 10:26:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

pretty nice means better than ones I've mentioned or on the same level ?

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by Wayne Parham on Thu, 13 Jan 2005 10:59:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Here's a link to their webpage.
Grado SR60

---

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by MarX on Thu, 13 Jan 2005 22:37:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

thnx and what you think grado's 60 are better then sennheiser 515 ?

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by colinhester on Thu, 13 Jan 2005 23:14:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I have never listened to the 515's, so my opinion between the two means nothing; however, for the MONEY (and a lot more,) the Grado's are the best 'phones one can buy. Don't just take my word; google for a review. Another thing to consider is a nice headphone amp. This will improve the sound as much as new cans for the ears. If you like to DIY, head (no pun intended) to headwize.org (I think it's .org) for a list of projects. I'm just finishing up a small chip amp that cost me about $40, inclding the power supply. Personally I listen to AKG 240's, but that's cause I picked them up for $0.42 at a flea market. The guy came down from a dollar - SCORE!!!!

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by MarX on Thu, 13 Jan 2005 23:43:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

hehehhe thnx a lot and what is your personal opinion about surround headphones ? any favorites ? or should I leave this topic ;D cause I've read soooooo much about it that i'm almost sick of it ;D anyway in I'll get normal stereo then yes grado's looks great but what if surround ? hmmm... sony ds3000 ? sennheiser hd555 ?

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by colinhester on Fri, 14 Jan 2005 15:50:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I have never listened to "surround" type cans. I do recall a year or so ago that the 555 was being sold at around $100. It looks like you've done your homework, and I cannot tell you the Grado will meet your needs, since it was not even considered from your first post. I would go with what other gamers recommend. If the Grado's do not fit the bill for your application, then go with what others use. One place to look at is audioadvisor.com. They have a pretty good selection of 'phones and head amps. Last night they had a demo pair of Grado SR60 for $55. I have bought used from these guys in the past, and I have never be disappointed. LEt's us know what you decide.....Colin

---

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]

Posted by MarX on Sat, 15 Jan 2005 14:31:49 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

thnx the problem is I can't find any gamers recommendation on the net :/ any way thnx for audioadvisor.com link looks good, right now my choice is between sennheiser and sony of course I'll write post when I finally get ones ps. can you answer me one more question ? I've ready that there're usually 2 types of headphones, close and open - I've read about it's advantages and disadvantages, but my question is: aren't close ones unhealthy ? I mean can they do any harm if I'll use them for to long ?

---

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]

Posted by colinhester on Sat, 15 Jan 2005 16:50:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Given the rep of Sennheiser, I would go with them. Is there a local audio store that will let you audition with your music source? The only way phones can do damage is by playing too loud for too long. There are different design: the ones that sit on your ears, like the Grados, and the ones that cup your ears, like the Senns. Oh yeah, there are also ear buds which go in the ear canal. The only real difference that I'm aware of is comfort. With my AKGs, I can only listen to them about 2-3 hours before they start giving me a massive headache. When you buy, make sure the store will let you return them if you are not 100% satisfied. Extended wearing is the only way to find out what's right for you. Again, if phone listening is going to be your primary source of audio stimulation, you should look into a nice headphone amp. Well worth the investment. One more thing, like when comparing loudspeakers, make sure you evaluate and equal volume levels. If not, the louder one will always sound "better." .....Colin

---

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]

Posted by MarX on Mon, 17 Jan 2005 14:12:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

ok,panasonic's and sony's goes out...I'm still thinking about something with surround sound but after few more days of reading articles and opinions I know that even in surround headphones normal stereo mode (if it's changable) sounds much better ... so...my choice is sennheiser... and now... what model ? hmmmI'm thinking about something for about 100 $ hmmm some kind of surround simulation would be fun, but not extremely necessary... they should be definitely open ones...right now I'm thinking about hp555, any opinions ?

---

---

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by colinhester on Tue, 18 Jan 2005 00:51:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I think the 555's would be a fine choice.....Colin

---

---

Subject: Re: question from poland :]
Posted by MarX on Thu, 20 Jan 2005 21:20:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

thnx they are almost mine ;D

---

---

Subject: Awesome!!!!
Posted by colinhester on Thu, 20 Jan 2005 21:41:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Let us know when you get them.....Colin

---