We discussed wireless headphones a couple years ago and the general consensus was that they are convenient but lack quality just a little bit. The very best couldn't be found in a wireless model. Has this changed in recent times? Is there a top-quality wireless headphone available now?

Ever since i invested in my wireless headset, I have never had a problem. Not like I would with one that has a wire. I wouldn't even go back to a headset that had a wire. The upgrade is too good.
