Subject: Making a sound system
Posted by hiryuu on Wed, 07 Feb 2007 00:42:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello, I'm new to this forum but I was looking into making a system for my car. I was wondering if someone could tell me what the basics to making a system are. I have stock speakers right now with a cd player but I want to put subs and such but I don't know what I would all need. If ya could give me some brand names and other useful info that I would need to make my first car stereo system. thanks

Subject: Re: Making a sound system
Posted by Wayne Parham on Wed, 07 Feb 2007 15:14:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

You should probably do a little research. Go to a shop and listen to various components, then do some searches and read what you'll need to do to install everything. The most important thing is the "listen" part - Don't just read what other guys say about quality, 'cause you'll get opinions and some that are very zealous, maybe unreasonably so. That's why it is important for you to go and actually listen to some equipment for yourself.

Subject: Re: Making a sound system
Posted by shinningstar on Thu, 15 Feb 2007 08:57:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Cars nowadays are great. The best sound system for your new car is whatever pleases your eardrums. I add a subwoofer in my car because only large speakers such as subwoofers can replicate the deep bass notes that give more dimensions to your sound system. Anyone use a subwoofers here?