I bought a 1998 minivan and the blasted thing only has a tape deck in it. We don't even have a tape deck in our house! We've been listening to the good ol radio for the past 4 months in that thing. When cash comes around, we'll upgrade to a proper cd stereo!

I don't I can live without the whole tape thing. I love the new upgrade thing we got going on. Because all that rewind and fastward just wasn't working for me.

You can go to almost any audio store and get a nice cheap stereo. For about 80 bucks. It won't be the best but it will be better than listening to the tape deck.

I must agree with you on that one. I really can't get with the whole tape thing. It's a bit cheesy but not only that, It just because a bit too much work.

Dont' get it wrong, people still sale and buy tapes and to have a tape player in your car isn't all that cheesy nor old.
