I somewhat inherited a Montgomery Wards Airline Solid State Stereo. There's a tag on the back that says model number: GAI-2435B and manufactured March 4, 1975. It works beautifully and sounds great! I wanted to know how common these are and what kind of value, if any, it has? Any other information would be helpful too. Thanks in advanced for your help!!!

It's hard to say. I used to see a lot of those, came by the same way you got yours. To tell the truth, the smaller tube radios are nice because they're nostaligic and don't take up a lot of space. But I'm not sure there's as much interest in mid-70's console stereos.
