

---

Subject: How much more silly can things get on eBay?
Posted by wunhuanglo on Sun, 24 Jul 2005 06:33:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

A $1700 starting bid for a JBL woofer? Sold for over $1800? Unless this is the one Jim kept under his pillow i just don't get it at all.
A woofer worth its weight in gold

---

---

Subject: Re: How much more silly can things get on eBay?
Posted by MWG on Thu, 04 Aug 2005 12:37:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I have heard that folks have more disposable income but that is way beyond my limited imagination

---

---

Subject: Re: How much more silly can things get on eBay?
Posted by Thermionic on Sat, 06 Aug 2005 00:09:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Just a few days ago, a pair of NOS Cunningham 2A3s went for around $900. The same seller was asking $1800 for a NOS pair of Western Electric engraved base 300Bs. I have a pair of almost new testing, engraved base, balloon envelope National Union 45s that I feel a sudden urge to part with in light of these recent vintage DHT sales on eBay..... Thermionic

---

---

Subject: Re: How much more silly can things get on eBay?
Posted by spkrman57 on Tue, 13 Dec 2005 20:53:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

The driver listed in the e-ay auction is a rare bird, but not that rare! Used in Hartsfield and some earlier 2 and 3 way systems. I would be more excited about a pair of K/E 145's (JBL Everest) Ron

---