Hallo, I used to own a pair of these nice Saba 70Kdeluxe 4 way speakers back in the late 70´sI sold my Rogers speakers, because the Sabas really s(w)ing, you wont believe it untill you have the rare chance to listening to a pair of nice old SABA Speakers. Sadly my wife wanted a pair of electrostatic "flat" speakers so I bought a set of Quad ESL..Funny I still miss the very good bass response of the SABA 70K..Saba is highly underrated and undervalued (to my mind...)Has anybody here some more experiences with German made SABA or telefunken / DUAL vintage stuff?Their speakers are really nice and not too big.I mean these speakers, sorry I dont have an own

I own several old Telefunken;Grundig and Canton speakers and have heard the Saba's >>>nothing sounds like these old speakers and it is uncanny how you can listen to things for thousands more and still go back to these and enjoy them more ~! I know as I have been in the business for thirty years
