If you had a choice to use an Orange or a Marshall amp (any model), which would you choose? and why? I'm looking to get a great tube amp, and I've narrowed it down to these two. Thanks

I'd love to try an Orange amp beside a Marshall, too. I haven't played through an Orange, I've only played through a Marshall half stack, and that was briefly quite a few years ago. I loved it. It seems to me that Orange is getting more popular in the last while. Do you think that's the case?

I would recommend any Marshall model. I love the sound they produce. Some models have good effects on them which can save you money by buying certain effects pedals/processors. Willyable

My husbanda owns a Marshall half stack, very loud and sounds great. I wish I could of heard the orange amp, but I hear that sounds good to, just didnt hear it personally or my husband. Crystal

Orange. The mids really bring out a popping high tone in the guitar. It sounds very original with a light fuzz and is just a cool kinda thing.
