Hey, I don't know if this is possible but I thought I might ask. I have a guitar amp for my Les Paul. Is there a device I can buy that will hook up my amp to a cd player or stero or something? So, I can play my cds very very loud. Thanks for the help!

Yes, it will hook right up. Just plug the preamp output from your CD to the input on your guitar amp. You'll need a cable that connects RCA to 1/4" plug, but you can build one easily or buy one at an electronics store.

I figured that one for myself when I first bought my first guitar. Could not afford an amp at the time. I bought an adpater and it worked. It was cool, now I have amplified sound.Crystal
