So a knob walked off of the P eq section of the A & H board. The pot still works, just no knob. REALLY makes the board look ghetto. Does anybody know of a vendor that sells such knobs? I saw a posted link for a vendor that sells mixer/pro audio type knobs a couple months ago but I didn't bookmark the link or know what forum I even saw the link in. Thanks in advance John

Thanks for the link I also got an email from Allen & Heath with the exact part # that can be ordered through a vendor. John

I hope that works for you. I'm surprised at what's out there in the way of replacement parts. A couple years ago I found a site that sold replacement rubber hammers for my Clavinet D6, and had down-loadable schematics and manuals, too.
