Hi D; On January the 21st. you posted a really nice simple hand drawn schematic of the power supply for Gueinevere. It was easy to follow and complete. Is there any chance I could prevail upon you to do the same for the amplifier section? I realise it is a lot to ask and I would understand totally if you are not able to do so. I just observed after perusing all of the back posts that your handdrawn was the most easily accesible of all the schematics. Thanks and Thanks for all your help; J.R. (If you replay that post you will see what I mean, you labeled all the pin-outs for both rec tubes and that was very helpfull.)

Damir; there is something about a good handdrawn schematic; it's like art, I feel like I should frame this; don't be surprised if I do! Colin has the Dn mosfet's can you use a spare motor oiler?
