Subject: Moniker consolidation
Posted by PakProtector on Sat, 10 Sep 2005 22:38:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hey-Hey!!!,I am gathering up my moniker set, not that tnuctipun or Thrint was so bad, but I am going to pick something a bit more Human.I will try to remember the PW for this one, I have a new system.cheers,Douglas

Subject: Re: Moniker consolidation
Posted by Manualblock on Sat, 10 Sep 2005 23:29:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

You got to stay with the program D-man; spending to much time pondering your identity. It could become a crisis.

Subject: no worries
Posted by PakProtector on Sat, 10 Sep 2005 23:44:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'll be OK. I still sign my name the same way. Just time to go by the same thing. I have a feeling that my AA ID 'Sector 7G' is going to be out of use for the indefinate future. Oh well, their loss...PakProtector is what I go by on the DecWare forum, Intact Audio, and Steve Hoffmann's Mastering site. And now this one too!Thanks for worrying about me though.cheers,Douglas

Subject: Re: Moniker consolidation
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 11 Sep 2005 03:05:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: Re: no worries
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 11 Sep 2005 03:08:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you want, we can reset the old usernames and then you can re-register them. Or you can leave them dormant. Passwords can't be retrieved, 'cause they're encrypted. But usernames can be deleted, and then they can be registered again. That's about the only way to do a password reset.

Subject: Re: no worries
Posted by Manualblock on Mon, 12 Sep 2005 13:47:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

No problem; we always worry about you.What did you do to incur their wrath on AA?

Subject: ummmmm....
Posted by PakProtector on Mon, 12 Sep 2005 14:53:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Root cause: expecting them to follow their own rules. There were some side issues surrounding one of their contributing forum owners and one or two folks who saw fit to attack me for being right....in short a meduim sized mess. no need to go accusing when they are not around to defend themselves.chers,Douglas

---