How about an AudioRoundTable group build room at the Lone Star Audio Fest? I don't sell anything, but for the past fests I have reserved a suite, brought a system, and hosted a DIY party where other non-commercial friends brought components they wanted to exhibit. For the 2007 fest there will be several suites like this.I was wondering if anybody else who plans to come to the fest has built an ART group build project. We could exhibit all the ART group build projects and call our room the AudioRoundTable Group Build room. Anybody interested?

That's a very good idea, Fred. If there's enough response, we could get a guest room. Another idea would be to put the systems in the seminar room on Saturday, where they could be heard in between seminars.

I'm pretty sure I'll build a UPS-proof box and ship the Simple 45 to LSAF. Hope to get a chance to hook it up to Pi 7's and Audiokinesis Jazz. Its not a 'group build', not yet. When you hear it, it will be.
