Dear Santa,I'd like to have a new router to replace the one that went belly up a while back. I'd also like to have a new battery powered screwdriver to replace the one that finally died after about 15 years of faithful service. It's hard to build speakers without these.A quad of nice KT-88's would be real nice as well. I'll leave the brand recommendation to your best judgement.Been good (mostly) Dave

Dear Santa,I would like to have a new Jasper jig so as not to mess up any new speaker projects in the future. Also, please could I have the remaining parts (or just leave money) to help me finish my Darling amp? My kids seemed to have taken all of my money.If this is too hard, could I please have a Mustang GT in dark red with black racing stripes so I don't have to beg my wife to drive her stang?Being as good as I can.....Shane

Being a humble and simple man, I only wish for world peace. Well, world peace and a matched quad of NOS 300Bs... oh, and maybe some 1960's NOS BB EL34's. Okay, and a pair of Altec 604's. Is that too much to ask?

I have all the toys I could ever want, but I have no time to enjoy them. Between house work, kids, business, and sleep, there is no time left over. I've tried to set aside one hour a day for me, but that just hasn't worked out C

When Bill finishes the enclosures for the 704-8A's we will have to drag them to your basement for evaluation.So at least you will get to listen to them!!!Probably after the holidays though.....Ron

But he swears he'll order the veneer for the 704's before he starts another project. Of course he's been telling me about these $308 Fountek Neo Pro 5i ribbons for the 3-way.....

I've been pretty thin the past several months out of necessity. I try to check in as often as possible but I have a lot going on these days.
