Subject: Now that we're past Vegas, Who's Up for LoneStarAudioFest in May?
Posted by DRCope on Fri, 19 Jan 2007 14:57:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Audio Note will be there, and I'm lobbying hard to get Audio Note Kits there as well. Never been to Texas, much less Dallas, so I'm really looking forward to this!For those having trouble keeping track of the domestic AN scorecard, Audio Federation in Boulder CO is now Audio Note's distributor in the U.S., while I continue to do trade shows and general marketing for Peter Q and the boys in Hove. (I'm lobbying to help out at the Paris (France, not Texas!) show in March, but I'm hearing a sort of deafening silence in response to the suggestion. sigh)

Subject: Re: Now that we're past Vegas, Who's Up for LoneStarAudioFest in May?
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 19 Jan 2007 16:15:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Lone Star Audiofest - May 4, 5 and 6, 2007 - Embassy Suites Park Central - Dallas, TX
I'll be there for sure. So will AudioKinesis, Audio Mirror, Azzolina Audio..., Well, now that I think about it, check out the "Who's Who" page on the LoneStarAudiofest.com website.

Just like last year, we'll have a seminar room available on Saturday. I'll be giving the "Crossover Electronics 101" seminar. Let me know if anyone from Audio Note wants to give a talk and we'll pen you in.
Lone Star Audiofest

Subject: Re: Now that we're past Vegas, Who's Up for LoneStarAudioFest in May?
Posted by DRCope on Fri, 19 Jan 2007 16:21:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The Azzolina speakers were shown off to great effect in a couple rooms at RMAF. Very impressive beasties!Been there (Who's Who), sent you a note on the AN logo and link . . .Is it spring yet? How bad has it been where you are, Wayne? I keep seeing nasty pictures from OK this week. A week ago it was 70 here in CT; yesterday we had our first dusting of snow this winter. Weird, weird, weird.Dave

Subject: Re: Now that we're past Vegas, Who's Up for LoneStarAudioFest in May?
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 19 Jan 2007 16:42:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've been commuting to Chicago, consulting with Lucent Technologies, on a project with IBM. So I've been in the windy city all week, back to Tulsa on weekends. What's weird is you expect this kind of weather in Chicago, but Oklahoma and Texas are usually pretty mild. St. Louis sort of marks the "snow line" and below that, winters are mild. But this year, the nasties came to the region between St. Louis and clear down almost the the Gulf of Mexico. Naturally, many of my flights have been cancelled or delayed the past few weeks.

Subject: Re: Now that we're past Vegas, Who's Up for LoneStarAudioFest in May?
Posted by jim denton on Sun, 21 Jan 2007 15:57:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wayne, Maybe you will have a chance to attend the international motorcycle show in Chicago Feb 9-10-11 ---I will be there the 12-13 for a one day seminar but could not make it a day earlier to see the show ---if you go take lots of pics please Jim

---

Subject: Re: Now that we're past Vegas, Who's Up for LoneStarAudioFest in May?
Posted by Wayne Parham on Tue, 23 Jan 2007 15:08:39 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I commute to Chicago, fly in Sunday night and back home Friday afternoon. So I may miss that show. Then again, I might just stay through the weekend and check it out.
