Hi Steve! Nice to hear from you! My listening room project is stuck in the mud! Thus no hurry on the speakers. I've begun the building process on the speakers and intend to really just build the heck out of them. I certainly have the time to play with them a little bit. As of now I have a large upstairs bathroom under full renovation, a dining room ceiling being gutted and sheetrocked, floor leveled, resheated and something put over the top(haven't decided on tile, lino, or carpet yet). Been redoing the exterior. Rebuilding, painting, etc. through the spring, summer, and fall. Have also been building houses full time and building furniture in my "fun" time. I need a break..... Can't wait to start my listening room project! Let me know how your projects are coming. Take care, Jerrod
