

---

Subject: No 4pi

Posted by JLapaire on Sun, 13 Jan 2002 14:47:03 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Well, fortunately I did this before ordering components, but still...I made a cardboard mockup of the Theater 4pi and tried to fit it into the living room. I could fit one, but not two, so they're out. I know you're probably gonna heave a great big sigh, Wayne, or any of you other seasoned pi-ers, but here it is - Since the Theater 3 is about the biggest box I can do, how do they compare with the Pro or Premium Stage 4s, or for that matter the Premium Studio 2? They all seem to have a 30 or 40hz bottom, 18 to 20khz top, similar dB/watt. I want a smooth, coherent speaker with some slam, and 5 cu ft is the max. What's a guy to do? Thanks for bearing with me. John

---

Subject: Professional Series

Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 13 Jan 2002 18:35:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

The Professional Series speakers are the best ones. They generate less distortion and are cleaner sounding as a result. If you can afford them, that's the way to go.