I'll second that! Kudos to all the great folks that made the "Fest" a great experience. Very nice to meet all of you - what an outstanding audio community, not to mention some of the best Mexican food I've had since my trip to Santa Fe!

The place was virtually deserted when I swung by? It seemed like almost everyone had packed up by then. Thanks for organizing the fest, though.

People started packing out on Sunday. A few were gone by noon, others stayed until later. But you've made an important point - We probably should do a better job of sticking to a set end time on Sunday. On one hand, you can't control exhibitors and force them to a particular schedule, but on the other hand, it must be disappointing to attendees that show up on Sunday expecing to see a show and finding almost everyone gone. So I think we as exhibitors should all agree to a set end time in advance next year, and then stick to it. We'll bring this up when we start planning for next year.
