Just now catching up after replacing the hardrive. Darned thing was shutting down from overheating, fried the drive, didn't know why. Finally figured out the PS fan was humming but not turning. Have an Enermax 350 watt 2 whisper fans "refrigeration" unit on the way.Just have to stick a pen in the grille and "crank" the fan periodically until the new PS get's here. LOL!You won't believe how much quieter an Maxtor 5400 RPM plain vanilla drive is than the fancy Seagate ultra ATA 7200 RPM that came with. And I can't tell it's slower!Bmar! Dude! Nice horns and I didn't realise the cabs were vintage until I saw the reveal where the sides meet the baffles.And Adam has a Trebuchet? When's the summer Pi festival at your house, Adam? I'm up for the drive. Run thru Rochester and get you, Mr. Martinelli.
