This sounds like a rad design. I have zero experience with horns and such, but that is one awesome project. What are you thinking of building it out of? Thats one massive thing dude. :-)

That's going to be a beautiful project, at least in the form-follows-function sense of the word. You have, of course, already trotted down to the City Hall and taken out the building permit for these structures and sent out letters to the neighbors within a mile or two?Their successful completion will cause you fame and notoriety.John
