Subject: T-Shirt Artwork
Posted by admin on Thu, 25 Mar 2004 05:58:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The T-Shirt artwork is finished, and now we're looking at bids for the shirts. For those of you that have already contributed, we should have your shirt on its way to you pretty soon now. For the rest of you, now's a good time to click the button. The shirt is our thanks for your support with contributions of $25.00 or more.

Subject: Re: Very Cool
Posted by Bill Martinelli on Fri, 26 Mar 2004 00:47:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nice DesignBill

Subject: Re: T-Shirt Artwork
Posted by lon on Fri, 26 Mar 2004 03:09:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Much more classy than what they turned out for Full Range Driverforum. Good color and smart design concepts... even if some ofthe symbolism escapes me. :-| Oh, before I go... checkout www.tshirthell.com for some majorlaughs.

Subject: Re: T-Shirt Artwork
Posted by Manualblock on Tue, 13 Apr 2004 17:46:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I just saw the t-shirt and really like the tastefull way you placed the logo on the upper left side over the heart. The lining up of the pocket with the straight edge of the record label is a great touch. Black is best it really shows off the colors and the script casually contrary to the formal lines of the logo. Across the back the blue provides peaceful respite against the severe black background. Very recognizable from a distance but not overwhelming up front, think it will definately inspire curiosity, allowing us to explain, which I would imagine you want. The nine circles orbiting around the central album label, those are the planets right? And the lines are musical staff? The sky represents the world of ideas and the clouds introduce an element of uncertainty such as that would indicate those aspects of the unknown requiring further study and reflection. Very well thought out and executed.