Subject: WSOTT meeting today with a new member
Posted by Bill Epstein on Sat, 19 Jan 2008 21:36:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ron, Pete and FNG Greg came over my place today for the debut of the long-suffering Altec Great Plains 704 co-ax project.It's more than 2 years since Spkrman commanded, "build me an 8 cu ft box with a 3/4" x 10" x something slot and back mount the drivers!"They're still not done cosmetically, calamity piled up on top of disaster with these things but at least they could finally be heard. Gonna need a lot of break-in but sound promising. They really like the 50 watts per side Melody amp. Brothers In Arms was really cooking at 100dB.Pete, thanks for the lighter but I don't smoke Winstons. Special thanks for the albums.Greg, you left the pix of your magnificent open baffles. And Ron, thanks for getting throughn the crossover hook-up, tedious and frustrating as it was, without showing us your ass. Well, almost.....Greg, Pete, Ron L-R

Subject: Re: WSOTT meeting today with a new member
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 03:26:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That looks like a great time! All except the butt shot.

Subject: Re: WSOTT meeting today with a new member
Posted by spkrman57 on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 15:58:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I feel like "Rodney Dangdrfield", don't get no respect.Not my best side!!! LOL!!!!Regards, Ron

Subject: Re: WSOTT meeting today with a new member
Posted by doucanoe on Sun, 20 Jan 2008 19:11:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I could of lived without the posterior shot but it looks like everyone had a good time!RC

Subject: Re: WSOTT meeting today with a new member
Posted by piece-it pete on Mon, 21 Jan 2008 16:23:45 GMT

Hey, free lighters are my specialty! Always good to see you, a fine host. Generally pics are taken from the front.I will now wash my eyes with kerosene.Pete