I just spent the past weekend listening to 11 different speakers, 5 tube amps, and 4 front ends at a Kentucky Decware gathering of 19 folks. Fortunately among the speakers were 2 Pi's that a nice young man from Arkansas built (true to the plans). I say fortunately because they sounded very good and showed themselves to be a great value. (They kicked the upgraded Adire 10.1's butts big time.) Can't wait to hear more/bigger Pi's, although those filled a 20 ft by 20 ft room with 1.8 wpc. Good job Wayne!

Thanks for posting. Did any of you get any photos? It would be great if you could post them here.

Sorry Wayne, I didn't have a camera, but several shots can be found on the Decware Forum. Now I like the 2 Pi's even more (they're like the Zen in that they're simple and cheap and sound better than they have a right to). jeff

Those are really the ones I'm most interested in.
